

The BARNUM and BAILEY

Greatest Show on Earth

Matchless in its Might and Weight of Worth. The World Covering, the World Conquering Monarch Supreme of the World's Amusement Realm.

This Giant of Amusements stands alone as it ever did, towering high above all others, matchless in its proud place of command. Its history is the history of America. Grand and greater yearly year, expanding with its country's growth, an inseparable part of the life of the Greatest Country on Earth. It has crossed the ocean time after time. It has carried its country's glory to the capitals of foreign lands. It has invaded with weapons of entertainment recreation and instruction the realms of foreign potentates, rulers, emperors and princes, the proud pattern of a republic's playground and her people's pleasure.

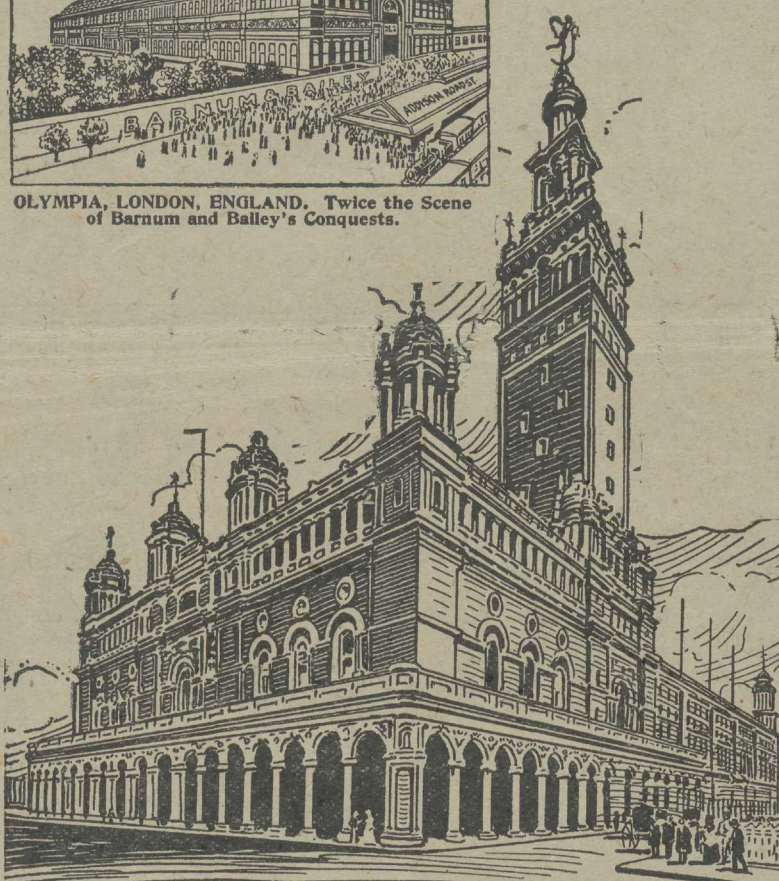

It stands today more firmly rooted in the esteem and affection of its country than ever before, because not satisfied with the victories of the past it is marching onward and upward to greater achievements and grander height.

The cars are painted in different colors, the one red, the other blue. Descending a single track at terrific speed, the red car leaps high in the air and, while it is turning a complete somersault, the blue car, following, shoots through space beneath the red, both cars landing upon the same receiving platform and riding safely away.
